Little Mac & small fries

FINGER FOOD: The tiny burger comes with fries and a fizzy drink

Pictures: WENN

■ by JAMES WICKHAM

FANCY a burger but worried about the calories? Here's your ideal Happy Meal – the world's smallest Big Mac.

It's the creation of photographer Nadia Caffesse and is the perfect antidote to the "super-size" trend.

Her tiny burger measures only an inch across, but comes with all the relishes and garnishes you would expect, including cheese, mustard, ketchup, lettuce, tomato and even sliced gherkin.

To round it off, there's a miniature side-order of fries. And you can wash it all down with a sip of fizzy drink in a cup.

The burger may be small but Nadia says it was big on taste. And it had to be – she shared it with her husband!

Texan Nadia said: "We cut it in half, toasted our success and gobbled it down. It tasted exactly like a fast food burger. Awesome!"

But don't form a queue for one just yet. McDonald's says it has no plans to add the tiny burger to its menu.

IF THE Tiny Mac leaves you peckish, try this for size – Big Bob's Texas Belt Buster, which weighs in at an incredible FOUR STONE (25 kilos) to notch a new world record. It was cooked up by chefs in Pattaya, Thailand, to mark the 60th anniversary of the reign of King Bhumibol Adulyadej, 78.

Tom's rehab saved band

TOM Chaplin going into rehab saved Keane from imploding.

Band songwriter Tim Rice-Oxley revealed that to me ahead of the trio's performance at the MTV Europe Music Awards tonight in Copenhagen.

And he admitted: "Each of us in the band have all done things we're not proud of."

Keane set off on their current UK tour shortly after Tom, 27, left The Priory, where he checked in to battle his addiction to booze and drugs.

Buzz

I'm pleased Tom's bounced back so quickly.

Tim said: "This is the best tour we've ever done. Tom going to rehab made us remember why we got into this – to make music, because we love it.

"Tom had problems for a long time. When the first single did so well none of us were prepared for it.

"You start looking to recreate that buzz of being on stage.

"One day he disappeared on us in Japan, then next thing he rang us to say he was checking in to The Priory." Plenty of other bands have commented on Tom's troubles, with Kasabian's Serge Pizzorno, 24, Noel Gallagher, 39, and Razorlight guitarist Björn Ågren, 26, chipping in.

Tim, 30, isn't bothered, saying: "We don't pay attention to what other bands say. We're just focusing on getting on with things.

"Tom, Richard and I are like brothers. We've known each other for 30 years and we're making great music. It's times like when we come up with a song at 2am in the morning which gives you shivers.

"That's what it's all about. The rest is irrelevant."

Despite latest album Under The Iron Sea being much darker than debut Hopes And Fears, Tim is certain Tom's experiences will affect their creativity on the follow-up.

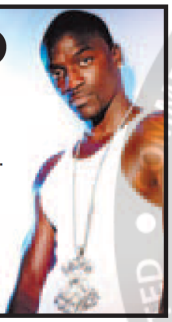

He said: "There's no doubt that what's happened will inspire the third album.

"When fame kicked in we all tried to keep grounded, but it's hard."

KEANE TO MAKE GREAT SOUNDS

MTV MUSIC TELEVISION EXCLUSIVE

Akon's up for award

AKON is thrilled he's been asked to hand over an MTV Europe Music Award.

The 27-year-old told me: "It'll be the first time I've been to an awards show and not performed, so I can't wait to watch and enjoy it as a viewer.

"I don't know which award I'm giving out and don't really care so long as it means I get to my seat after."

Akon's new single Smack That, with Eminem, 34, is out on November 6.

EXTRA copies of Take That's comeback album are being pressed after huge demand for their new DVD saw sales top the entire Top 50 combined. The Ultimate Tour – Live In Manchester is nestling at No 1 in the DVD chart indicating a replica performance is likely for new single Patience, out November 20, and album Beautiful World, which follows a fortnight later.

McFLY are entering the battle for Christmas No 1 with their first release in the festive slot. After new single Star Girl went straight to the top, the boys, whose third album is out on Monday, are releasing a double A-side. Friday Night/Sorry's Not Good Enough hits the shops on December 18.

DIDDY GANG COPEN WELL

P.DIDDY maintained his usual bling standards by taking an entourage of 20 to Copenhagen for the MTV Awards.

The rapper, who was invited to watch pal Wayne Rooney, 21, play for Manchester United in the city last night, flew in a chef and barber from the US.

Diddy's name was also top of the guest lists for many of the fancy dos which took place in Denmark.

They included a posh dinner with the head of MTV Europe and a fashion bash hosted by model and Copenhagen native Helena Christensen, 37.

The 36-year-old is also throwing one of his own legendary parties after the awards tonight to celebrate his latest album Press Play.

Justin's Robbie dazzler

JUSTIN Timberlake has declared himself better than Robbie Williams, 32. Ahead of hosting tonight's EMAs, the SexyBack singer made the quip at a press conference where he is pictured yesterday.

Joe is freezing his curls off to bring you all the gossip tomorrow and everyone is very excited about JT, 25, closing the show.

Flip to Pages 36-37 to read about the MTV preparations and what else Mr FutureLove/SexSounds had to say. Tickets for JT's UK tour go on sale tomorrow from www.aeglive.co.uk.

OP AND ABOUT

9 mobile theatres to cut waiting lists

SURGEONS are to perform operations in supermarket car parks in a bizarre bid to cut hospital waiting lists.

Shoppers will be able to pick up their groceries then go under the knife in mobile theatres.

Health officials are setting up nine mini hospitals in car parks across the West Midlands in a pilot scheme to speed up surgery waiting times.

The theatres are equipped to carry out a host of procedures including cataract removals and circumcisions.

They will also feature endoscopy units for internal examinations.

Clinics

Patients referred by their GPs will be able to attend the Nuffield Hospital-run clinics in car parks in Herefordshire, Worcestershire and Warwickshire from January. A hospital spokesman assured treatment would be of a high standard.

He said: "They comply fully with Healthcare Commission standards."

THOUSANDS of patients and staff staged a march in London against NHS cuts yesterday. Among them were Rosie Auld, head orthoptist at Birmingham Eye Hospital and psychiatric nurse Sam Selon from Charing Cross Hospital, west London, who paraded a banner at Parliament.

Cranes lift lardy patients

HOSPITALS in a city with Britain's fattest women have spent £150,000 on two CRANES to lift giant patients out of bed.

Bosses at hospitals in Birmingham and West Bromwich have also bought 125 specially reinforced beds and trolleys.

And they have splashed out on a huge baby bouncer to help fatties stand up.

NHS boss John Adler said: "We are having to gear up to deal with whatever comes into the hospital."

Wally's out at crack of dawn

■ CAMP funnyman David Walliams was on cracking form when he flashed his builder's bum outside his north London home early yesterday.

■ The Little Britain star, 35, may have picked up a gong for his Channel swim at Tuesday night's National TV Awards, but it was a case of "yeah butt, no butt" as he climbed into a cab.

Who do you think you are...Stirling Moss?

CROOKS have no hope of escaping this police car ... it's a 211mph Lamborghini Murcielago LP640.

The £150,000 monster was on show in West London yesterday in the Met's blue and yellow colours.

It is on display at the MPH show at Earls Court to help promote road safety. But if anybody could give the police a run for their money, it would be Stirling Moss.

The 77-year-old Grand Prix legend went for a spin yesterday in a vintage Jaguar racing car, right.

Fury at lights blunder

BUNGLING council bosses sent staff to fit new street lights – but forgot to tell them to wire them up to the mains.

Now the busy city centre road will have to be dug up all over again, causing more misery for residents and motorists.

Workmen first moved in nine months ago as part of a £127,000 scheme to upgrade lighting.

Mistake

But they did not connect the new lights to the electricity supply.

The cock-up has enraged local councillors and residents of Hayley's Terrace, York.

Councillor Ken King, who represents the area, fumed: "It has been one bungle after another.

"Clearly someone has made a big mistake and the council should be pulling out all the stops to get it sorted."

Fellow councillor David Scott added: "This scheme has been a complete let-down. Now the connection of the lighting will cause severe disruption again."

One local resident, who did not wish to be named, said: "This busy junction was part-closed for ages while the lights were installed. That caused massive congestion and inconvenience to residents.

"Now we find they've got to do it all over again because electrical power was not provided for the lighting."

York City Council admits that the original order telling contractors to connect the lights to the electricity supply had been "lost or misplaced".

A spokeswoman said: "Contractors have been booked to connect the new street lights.

"We appreciate that this will involve some further inconvenience for residents and we can only apologise for that."

NOOKIE: Joe Swash

A Miller thriller

ACTOR Joe Swash is delighted his "sex-starved" character Mickey Miller will get a girlfriend.

A saucy newcomer is to finally put the spring back in the market-seller's step.

Joe, 24, has already filmed some scenes with gorgeous new EastEnders arrival Elaine Tan and admits his job will be "any man's dream".

He added: "It's about time Mickey got a lady. He's the most sex-starved lad on the Square."

Elaine, 23, who recently appeared in two episodes of Hollyoaks: In The City, will play flirty Li.

IN A FIX: Steph

Steph is stitched

PSYCHO bitch Steph Stokes comes face to face with husband Adam Forsythe as she stands trial for the murder of her brother.

Adam (Richard Shelton, 44) turns up to testify against Steph EMMERDALE (Lorraine Chase, 55) even though he killed Terence Turner.

Adam brings his ex-wife Isla (Sarah Griffiths, 37) with him to claim she heard Steph admit to bumping off her brother.

Lorraine said: "You'll see Steph being kind and devious. But whether she can get out of this remains to be seen."

TENSE: Nikki in the crashed ambulance tends to the stab victim as the hostage scene unfolds

Gill's down the Nik

EASTENDERS legend Gillian Taylforth stares down the barrel of a gun on her explosive first day as Sun Hill newcomer Nikki Wright.

Gillian, 51, famous as Albert Square's Kathy Beale, plays a straight-talking sergeant.

And Nikki finds herself in the middle of a hostage drama when she's in an ambulance with a stab victim and a thief rams it with his getaway car.

Gillian said: "Nikki's one of those people who, if there's something to be done, will just go ahead and do it. So she gets out of the ambulance to negotiate with the robber." The tense scenes will be shown on Wednesday on ITV1 at 8pm.

Frankie: I want out

She bids for a Jamie kiss-off

CORONATION ST.

TORMENTED Frankie Baldwin begs hubby Danny to move to Spain after she lets herself go and snogs his son.

The guilt-ridden blonde decides it's time to cut and run after she shares a passionate clinch with young Jamie in the back of his van.

Frankie (Debra Stephenson, 34) is desperate to get away after admitting to the lad she has feelings for him.

A Coronation Street insider told us: "She knows what she's doing is wrong. She's raised Jamie as her own and is battling to stop herself having these feelings for him.

"But she can't hide the fact that she's attracted to him. And Jamie is not prepared to give her up without a fight, which is making life even harder for her."

Danny is hesitant about starting again in a new country but the factory boss (Bradley Walsh, 46) gives in when Frankie says it's just the change they have been looking for. He then approaches Liam Connor to ask about him buying the factory.

But love-struck Jamie (Rupert Hill, 27) resorts to blackmailing his dad when he hears the news.

He claims that if he wants them to ever have a relationship he'll have to stick around to work things out.

Escape

It's just a desperate bid to scupper Frankie's escape plans, though.

But our spy added: "With their forbidden passion growing stronger by the second, can they resist temptation?"

Lights

The CD of four original tunes and love song covers will raise money for the NSPCC, The Richard Desmond Eye Centre at London's Moorfields Eye Hospital, The Disability Foundation, Vision and Norwood Children & Families First.

The pair will be performing songs from the album in Oxford Street, London, next Thursday when All Saints switch on the Christmas lights.

And as if that weren't enough to occupy Kate, she will also be launching her own underwear range with Panache in a fortnight.

Her spokeswoman adds: "This range will really change the way women fit their lingerie. So many women wear the wrong size bras but this new range really fits well. Kate doesn't wear anything else."

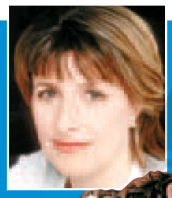

Just what Kate will turn her hand to next is anyone's guess – but it's bound to be hair-raising.

JANE O'GORMAN SOLVES YOUR PROBLEMS TODAY ... AND EVERY DAY

Fury at her bar flirting

MY girlfriend has started work in our local as a barmaid and it's driving me insane with jealousy.

Every time I go in for a pint, she's chatting up other customers and is obviously enjoying the way they flirt with her.

I've had to drag her away to the corner of the bar and demand that she stops leading these losers on.

She says her boss insists she makes up to the customers, because that way they'll spend more. But I reckon she is enjoying herself.

I've told her she's got to give up this job, but she says she needs the extra money – she's got a daytime job, too – for Christmas.

The thing is, I know what blokes are like. One night she's going to come face to face with a punter outside who's waiting for her to leave. Then what will she do?

JANE SAYS: Make up your mind – are you worried about her safety or insanely jealous?

If it's the first of these, you could meet her when she finishes each night, if it's not too much trouble, and make sure she gets home safely.

If it's the second, I reckon you're being unreasonable. Lighten up a little and let her get on with her job.

Bar staff have to be friendly to the customers or they'd soon go elsewhere.

DREAM GIRL: Fella can't wait to make his fantasy come true

I'M GAGGING FOR A KINKY FOURSOME

EVER since my best mate and I became pals, we've vowed that one day we'd have a foursome with our girlfriends.

It's never been the right time because whenever one of us had a lover, the other didn't.

But now the time is most definitely right.

I have a great girlfriend who is game for most things. And when I talked to her about having group sex, she gave it the thumbs-up and said she'd be happy to have the experience.

But I have to admit I've got an ulterior motive for wanting a foursome, because I have become obsessed with my mate's new girl. She is the sexiest babe on the planet and I get excited just thinking about her.

My mate has been going out with her for three months now and I just wish she was mine.

From the very first time we met, I've found myself fantasising about her when I make love to my own girlfriend.

Lust

Naturally, I've reminded my pal about our promise to have a foursome. But every time I've suggested that we finally fulfil our fantasy, he says it's not time yet.

It's like he's now trying to go back on all we've planned – and I'm going out of my mind with pent-up lust. I can't get this girl out of my mind and I know that once we all got naked and in bed, I'd just let my mate and my girlfriend get on with it so I could have sex with this hot girl.

Do you think I should keep pestering my mate and insist he keeps the promise we made?

Or should I wait a while until his relationship with this girl has developed a bit?

JANE SAYS: It sounds to me as if your friend has no intention of sharing his new girlfriend with you, so you are just going to have to forget the idea.

Maybe he feels it's too early in the relationship, or perhaps he feels that once you get your hands on her she won't want him any more.

He could, of course, be passionately in love with her and not want to share her – ever.

And if you admitted the truth to your own girlfriend, I'm sure she'd not be so keen either.

The fact is, you fancy this other girl like mad. A foursome with her and your mate wouldn't be living out the fantasy that you planned – it would be a chance for you to have sex with a girl you want.

And that wasn't the original plan at all.

Your friend's not daft. He must know how you feel about his girlfriend. And that's why he's adamant that there's no way this foursome is going to happen.

He just wants me for nookie

I'VE been in love with this guy for three years – but he treats me like dirt.

We've never actually gone out with each other but at the end of a night at the pub or club he'll make his way over to me and I'll go home with him if he hasn't got off with anyone else.

When we get back to his place, we'll have sex and then I walk home.

I always hope that one night he'll let me stay the night or ask me what I'm doing the following night. But it has never happened.

I know he doesn't want to make a commitment to me or anyone else but I've been happy to wait around for him because I love him.

How can I get him to make me his proper girlfriend?

JANE SAYS: This guy is just a nasty creep, who uses you for sex when he can't get anyone else.

You need to get him out of your system, because you are far too nice to be treated like this.

Force yourself to avoid him for the next few months, going out instead to places where you know he won't be.

I realise it won't be easy but you really must face the truth.

And who knows? If you start going to different places, you might even meet someone else.

She's turned on by girlie action

I'M getting a bit worried about my girlfriend. I love watching porn – and so does she. That's great, because she gets really turned on and we end up making love for hours.

But it's not the well-endowed guys that get her going. I've noticed that it's when she's watching the girl-on-girl action that she gets the horniest.

I'm now beginning to wonder if she swings both ways. She's never said anything to me about fancying girls. It wouldn't worry me if she did but I want to know the truth.

JANE SAYS: Just because your girlfriend gets turned on by watching girls cavorting about doesn't mean she's a lesbian. I'm sure the films you watch include naked men and you're still turned on.

It's what's being done to them that gets you going – and I'm sure it's the same for your girlfriend. She's enjoying watching the action, regardless of who is doing what to whom.

If you really are concerned there's nothing wrong with asking her, though, is there? But I'd say she's behaving like most other heterosexuals.

TIMBERLAKE GETS I'm WAY Robbie

IN CHARGE: Host Justin, says he's hotter than Robbie, right

SHOW HOST TAKES A POP AT HIS RIVAL

CHEEKY Justin Timberlake reckons he's far better than Robbie Williams.

By SAM PARKER in Copenhagen

And he's out to prove it tonight when he hosts the glitzy MTV Europe Awards in Copenhagen.

US hunk Justin, 25, has a lot in common with the Robster, 32. Both have made the rare transition from boyband to solo superstar.

But Justin reckons he's got the edge over his British rival.

He tells me with a twinkle in his eye: "I'm way better than him!"

Asked why, like Robbie, he's found such massive solo success, he quips: "Because I'm amazing!"

But don't let joker Justin fool you – he really is human. Like anyone else would, he's feeling a few nerves ahead of tonight's MTV bash.

He admits: "I'm just hoping to get through it and make MTV proud.

"It's the unexpected. I'm more nervous doing this than if I was doing my own show. You have to be the master of ceremonies, to be in control.

"But I'm hoping to have fun, make a few jokes.

"It's such an honour for MTV to ask me. It was kind of a no brainer for me when they asked. How could you say no?"

Swanky

The Danish weather has hardly given him and the rest of the stars a warm welcome. It's freezing, the rain's streaming down and it's dark by 4pm.

But the locals are delighted to play host to the celebs, who have turned Copenhagen into the A-list capital of the world.

In the swanky Hotel d'Angleterre alone there are Justin and his Hollywood honey Cameron Diaz, 34, rubbing shoulders with Snoop Dogg, 35, The Killers and Nelly Furtado,

IT'S the biggest event in the music calendar, with the hottest artists and some of music's most demanding divas.

So you might expect just a few luxuries at the MTV Europe Awards. Here's some of the facts and figures about the amazing show...

- ON the outdoor stage, eight tons of ice will be used to create some impressive sculptures.
- THE dressing rooms have a total of 75 full-length mirrors, 64 table-top mirrors, 400 coat hangers, 83 dress rails, 10 irons, 82 sofas and 20 armchairs.
- ARTISTS and dancers will be wearing 200 sets of fake eyelashes and 200 hairpieces. The most requested beauty product is hair serum.
- AFTER the show, bar staff have laid on 3,000 glasses of champagne, 10,000 bottles of beer, 1,000 bottles of vodka, 300 bottles of gin and 2,200 litres of wine for the stars.
- AN army of 54 caterers will provide such delights as deluxe cheeseburgers, pan-fried salmon, Thai beef salad, tuna salad, apple strudel and jam roly-poly for the hungry performers.
- A TOTAL of 106 limousines will be used to ferry the stars to the bash.

STAR TURNS: Nelly Furtado, above, Sugababe Keisha, right, and The Killers, below

NONE of the artists will be leaving empty-handed – oh no! Each will be given a goodie bag worth a whopping £10,000. Contents include a Sony Ericsson Walkman mobile phone, voucher to shop for free at the backstage Replay jeans store and the entire James Bond DVD collection. One lucky star will win a Vauxhall Corsa, too.

GREAT DANE: Snoop Dogg is already loving the atmosphere in Copenhagen

27. A quick cab ride across town and P Diddy, 36, is holding court.

Other stars who have flown in include sexy Sugababe Keisha Buchanan 22.

Tonight's MTV show – set to be beamed to an audience of around 1.4 billion – has really got of Copenhagen buzzing.

A huge sound stage now dominates the main Radhus Pladsen square, where The Killers and Keane will entertain a capacity crowd.

Meanwhile, the Bella Center will host the main show where Furtado is said to be planning to strut her stuff in bling worth £2.2m.

Over the past couple of days the party atmosphere has been building to a fever. Justin and Cameron kicked off the fun with an intimate Halloween gathering on Tuesday night.

Yesterday new James Bond star Daniel Craig, 38, added a touch of 007 magic by flying in.

Party

And Johnny Knoxville, 35, and the rest of his Jackass crew proved they really are crazy by touring the city in an open-topped bus..

MTV held a big party at the space-themed NASA Club last night.

But the hottest ticket in town was an ultra-glam fashion do hosted by the world's most famous Danish dish, model Helena Christensen, 37.

Tonight, P Diddy, Interscope Records and Sony Music are all planning lavish after-show bashes.

But if you don't get an invite, don't fret. MTV host Justin will be making up for it next year – and we're all invited!

He will be spending all next year touring, including a series of UK shows.

And although Justin is keeping full details a secret, he promises every gig will be "the most amazing show you've ever seen in your life". Can't wait!

You can catch the MTV Europe Music Awards live on MTV tonight from 8pm.

PETE BURNS: ITV1, 9pm

MIKE WARD

WHAT'S HOT TO WATCH TODAY

CAN you remember your first reaction when Eighties pop star Pete Burns (if "star" is the right word for a guy who released only one record that anyone can actually remember) first strolled into the Celebrity Big Brother house? Me, I'm still waking up in a cold sweat on a regular basis, haunted by the image of that scary old mashed-up face of his.

Maybe I'm being a tiny bit insensitive, though, because poor Pete has been to hell and back (via Watford Gap services, I believe) in his painful quest for physical improvement.

As we learn in PETE BURNS' COSMETIC SURGERY NIGHTMARES (ITV1, 9pm), this guy loathed the way he looked from a very young age, leapt at the chance to do something about it once he had the money – and, sadly, ended up paying a heavy price.

Pete talks us through exactly what he's been through – from a botched nose job, right through to the point where, after developing lumpy growths around his mouth, a doctor advised him to get his lips removed.

But the programme isn't all about him. With cosmetic surgery significantly cheaper and more accessible than it used to be just a few years back, there's no shortage of horrific case studies to highlight, including a woman whose breast reduction was so severe that she became convinced she'd been given a mastectomy.

ELSEWHERE, BBC1 has the first in a new conspiracy-based thriller THE STATE WITHIN (9pm), with Jason Isaacs playing Britain's ambassador in Washington, caught up in a sequence of events that threatens the stability of the Western world.

ALSO at 9pm, Channel 4 has A HARLOT'S PROGRESS, which I'm sure you won't want to miss, seeing as it's all about the 18th century artist William Hogarth.

DAILY STAR TV GUIDE

MATT BAYLIS ...ON LAST NIGHT'S TV

OLDER readers might remember the words of Mandy Rice-Davies, a call-girl called as witness in the aftermath of the Profumo affair. Informed by a barrister that an aristocrat had denied having an affair with her, she said: "Well, he would, wouldn't he?"

Her simple answer announced the dawn of a new era – in which nobody assumed that people in high office would tell the truth or behave honourably any more. There were echoes of that barrister's innocence, and the call-girl's reply, in THE GREAT BRITISH UFO MYSTERY (Five), a documentary which, like many shows with the word "mystery" in the title, turned out not to be very mysterious.

In 1993, hundreds of people reported seeing a strange craft flying at great speed over Wales and western England. The credibility of many of the witnesses and the similarities between the reports led Nick Pope, a Ministry of Defence investigator, to dig deeper. Initial suspicions that it was the discarded fuel tank of a Russian space probe proved unlikely. Meanwhile, Ministry bosses, and their opposite numbers in the US Air Force, denied that it was any kind of top-secret test craft.

Tremble

Since his job was to assess the risks to UK air space, and the object, whatever it was, had posed no risk, Pope had to close the file. But years later, thanks to the Freedom of Information Act, he was able to access it again – and found a concluding letter from defence big-wigs, confirming that a UFO seemed to have flown over at that time.

The documentary-makers clearly wanted us to tremble in our seats at this – and we might have done, if we'd forgotten that UFO doesn't mean "alien space-craft", just unidentified flying object. In other words, this hallowed document was simply saying that something flew over us on March 30, 1993, and the chaps at the MoD didn't know what it was.

Much of this programme's argument rested on a charming, childlike belief that military spook type people tell the truth about what they're up to, and when they say they don't know something, they mean they don't know.

Believe that and you might as well believe in little green men.

IVA... the facts!

Millions of people are struggling to cope with serious debt problems, but what some of them don't realise is that there may be an alternative to bankruptcy in the form of an Individual Voluntary Arrangement (IVA), a legally binding contract between you and your creditors, the people that you owe money to.

The number of IVAs has risen sharply in recent years. In 1998 there were fewer than 5,000, but experts are now predicting that the number could reach 100,000 within the next few years.

So how do you know if an IVA is the right option for you? People can find themselves facing severe debt problems for a number of reasons, and for some, bankruptcy will be the right choice.

In general, IVAs are used by people with debts of more than £15,000, and for many they have proven to be a highly effective way of getting rid of debt problems and making a fresh start.

There are advantages to an IVA. Unlike bankruptcy, where your details may appear in the local press, IVAs are not made public knowledge. And where bankruptcy might mean that you are unable to carry on working in your current job, with an IVA, your work can remain unaffected, with your employer knowing nothing about it.

You can also carry on trading in a business to generate income, while any professional status or ability to hold public office, will be unaffected.

However, IVAs are governed by the Insolvency Act 1986, and form a legally binding agreement. The rules are stringent, with the main consideration being your ability to make regular monthly repayments to your creditors.

IVAs normally last for between three and five years, during which time you pay a fixed amount every month, and in some cases, one-off contributions, which may come from equity raised from any property that you own.

The total payments made will usually be less than the total amount owed, but they will be accepted as full and final settlement by your creditors.

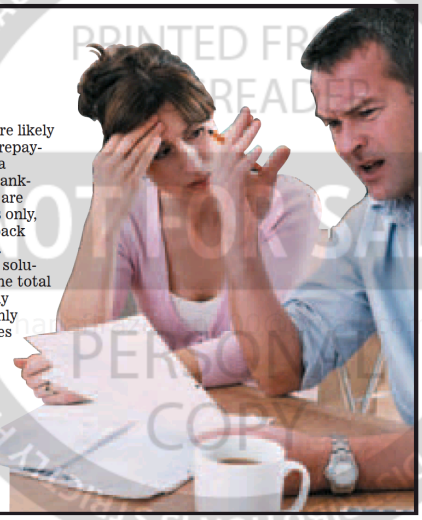

While the IVA is in place, your creditors are not allowed to harass you and will normally agree not to contact you during the term of the agreement.

However if you fail to make your repayments without having a legitimate reason, the IVA may become void, and your creditors, no longer be bound by the arrangement, will be able to pursue you for the full amount of their debt, and this could result in bankruptcy.

Creditors are generally more likely to support an IVA, because repayments are being made over a longer period of time than bankruptcy, where contributions are usually made for three years only, and they therefore will get back more of what they are owed.

So, if you are looking for a solution to debt, that reduces the total amount that you have to pay back, and gives you a monthly repayment option that leaves you with more money in your pocket, an IVA may well be worth considering.

Do not enter into an IVA or similar agreement without seeking advice from a solicitor

A MAN wins £10million on the Lotto, just as he's on his death bed. He hands his wife the winning ticket and says: "All my life I've dreamed of a big win.

"Promise me one thing – that you'll bury the money with me." His tearful wife agrees.

At his funeral, a pal of the widow sees her go up to the coffin and stick an envelope inside.

The widow says: "But I had to keep my promise…so I wrote him a cheque."
